MONDAY, JUNE 29, 1857.

FROM THE UPPER MISSOURI.—The steamer Spread Eagle arrived at St. Louis, on Friday evening, from a point on the Upper Missouri, two thousand five hundred miles distant from St. Louis, and one hundred and eighty miles beyond Fort Union, at the mouth of the Yellowstone. Forty-eight days had elased since her departure from St. Louis on business connected with the American fur company. She brought about 5,000 packs of furs, and 50 mountaineers, men attired partly in Indian garb, and with fan's almost as dark as that of the Indian.

The Indians, as far as known. were quiet, and showed no disposition to fight amongst themselves, or to trouble the whites, excepting on one occasion, as follows. On the down trip, a band of armed As siniboins were observed congregated on the bank, and made signals inviting the boat to land. The officers not thinking it quite safe to do so, determined to pause, and sounded the bell as if about to land, but kept her mooring swiftly past.

The Indians were of course highly displeased at this movement and fired a volley at the boat, but fortunately only one bullet struck the boat. No one but hurt. This was the last seen of these Indians.

We learn from the Kingston (Canada) News that the Iceberg, Dr. Rae's vessel, which he has been building for his new Arctic expedition, was launched on Saturday week in presence of a large concourse of spectators. The Iceberg is rigged as a brigantine, and measures 117 tons, carpenters' measurement, but will probably be registered at about 80 tons. She has been built with great strength, to fit her for the heavy work she is destined to encounter. The season being too far andvanced to enter upon her proper mission, she will be engaged in freighting till the fall, when Dr. Rae will take her to England, and be prepared next spring to carry her into the Polar Sea, to accomplish the mission he has set himself to perform.

TO OF GOLD ANTICIPATED .- A private letter, which came by the last steamer, from a gentle man in San Francisco, states that in the writer's opinion the yield of gold for the year 1857 will not be much short of one hundred millions of dollars. The assumption is based on the knowledge that the facilities for washing have been greatly increased by the completion of numerous canals and ditches which have been in progress for a year or two past. The letter further states that trade in San Francisco will be good throughout the summer.

Two young men named Manlius Card and Parker Card, with their sister, were arrested at Rochester, on Monday, charged with being concerned in systematic and extensive robberies all over the country in Western New York. A vast amount of silver-ware and other valuable property, the proceeds of several burglaries, were found in boxes, buried beneath the floor of the house.

The recent rains have caused an unprec ted height of water and great damage in the lakes and streams in central New York. At Seneca Falls 200 hogs were carried off. In Syracuse the flats are covered, and a number of the salt blocks so flooded that large quantities of salt had been removed to ground for safety.. The postmaster's son at Purdy, Tenn., has been arrested for robbing the mail.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] TO EMMA ----, ON HER MARRIAGE. I thought that I could bid thee go Without a single tear!
Nor knew thy joy could be my woe,
Thy hopes my greatest fear.

I thought I loved thee all too well To feel an inward smart; Nor knew, until those tear-drops fell, How selfish was my heart.

For life within the future seemed A vision to thine eyes, As bright as lover ever dreamed Beneath the starry skies.

I saw the happy angel's wing Was waving o'er thee then, And knew it was a selfish thing To feel so much of pain.

And yet I know thou canst forgive That I would thus repine, And think my heart could only live Close to the pulse of thine;

Whate'er the spells around thee thrown, Thy soul from doubt is free-It knows my own has never known A thought unkind to thee.

Those selfish tears were all repressed. But weary days would come, When silent lips too well confessed How cheerless was my home.

I do not ask to love thee less-It were a useless prayer— But I will teach my heart to bless The home it may not share.

As free from sorrow's tears—
As bright as that you've made for me
Throughout my girlish years,

And he, whom thou hast trusted so-I only wish that he May be as faithful as I know Thine own pure soul to be.

That he may love thee half as well, And hold thy weal as dear,
As one who could not say farewell Without a selfish tear.

MEETING OF THE INDIANA FREE BANKERS .- A meeting of the Free Bankers of Indiana was held in Indianapolis on the 25th inst. The gathering was an exclusive one, private and secret. Its purpose. however, has transpired, and was the taking of steps toward the establishing in Indianapolis of a Union Bank, in which all the Free Banks of the State are to be stockholders, with a capital of $200,000. The object of this is the protection of Indiana Free Bank currency by driving out Ohio, Virginia, and all ther foreign bank notes, to put down the rate of exchange, and to further the adoption of such a pollcy as shall, with reference to foreign bankers, be promotive of the interests of those concerned.

THE U. S. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. - The arrangements for the summer trial of harvesting implements to take place at Syracuse, N. Y., from the 8th to the 13th of July, under the auspices of the United States Agricultural Society, are nearly completed. Nearly one hundred implements have been entered for competition. They come from all parts of the country, from the extreme West as well as the North and East. It will be in every respect a national exhibition and will be full of interest to the whole agricultural community.

The machines entered will all be exhibited at the annual exhibition of the Society near this city, commencing September 1, when a trial of plows and other farming implements will take place. The implement department at the fall exhibition is confidently expected to surpass any exhibition that has ever been held in this country or in Europe. The premiums upon the harvesting implements will be awarded in September at Louisville.

A cotemporary thus describes the grand gold medals of honor to be awarded by the Society:

medals of honor to be awarded by the Society:

We have been shown a cut of the great gold medal of the United States Society. It is decidedly the most massive one and has the most appropriate design of any we have seen. Its diameter is three inches, and it will cost the Society about one hundred and fifty dollars. The face represents a majestic female figure seated upon a throne. In the right hand, which is elevated and extended forward in an attitude of invitation, she holds a crown of laurel; in her left she holds the sickle—emblem of agricultural industry. In her lap are gathered various fruits. Her noble brow is covered with the wreath of Empire, and her prond and expressive countenance manifests her dignified rank as the impartial disposer of awards to the competitors. Around the rim of the medal is the classic wreath of laurel, and within this the words, in Roman letters—"UNITED STATES AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, INSTITTED MOCCILI."

The adverse side is ornamented simply with a wreath of plants, the productions of the grand divisions of the United States, emblematic of the national character of the Society. On one side are the sugar cane and cotton plant, on the other the Indian corn and wheat, and at the bottom, uniting the two, is a grape ving laden with fruit and leaves. Thus the great staples of the South, North, West, and East are wreathed together.

The beauty of the designs of this medal is their great simplicity. The Society have wisely avoided the pernicious taste often displayed by others—that of crowding upon their medals the entire contents of an implement manufactory and seed store to serve as mellems of agricultural industry.

NATIONAL GUARD OF ST. LOUIS .- It will be seen from the following letter that this fine military corps will arrive in this city on the morning of the 3d, en route for Lexington, to attend the laying of the corner stone of the Clay Monument. Our two new military companies, though not yet uniformed, will doubtless take some steps for their reception and entertainment during their sojourn in this city. It has been long since an opportunity was offered our citizens to welcome among them a volunteer military company from a sister city. We suggest to our gallant volunteers to set at work without delay to give the "National Guards" a hearty and proper reception and entertainment, that will be worthy of Kentucky and of Louisville:

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Sr. Louis, June 26, 1857.

GENTLEMEN:—I learn this morning from an officer of the "National Guard" that they will positively visit Lexingron on the 4th of July.

This fine company of whole-souled fellows is one of the "unstitutions" of our city of which we are of the "institutions" of our city of which we are all proud. Many of them are natives of our noble old State, and you will undoubtedly extend to them an old-fashioned Kentucky welcome. FASHIONABLE INTELLIGENCE. FASHIONS FORJULY.

this unusual state of things, which it is reared the tardy glimpses of sunshine we have had recently will not remove.

The recent fearful police commotion which has agitated the city has by no means tended to allay this state of feeling. Outside traffic, upon which New York, greatly depends, is almost suspended, and, even if no more serious results follow, the greatest depression in the business, world waste conserved. even if no more serious results follow, the greatest de-pression in the business world must ensue. At present there is little trace of the joyous activity which generally characterises this season, when citizens are preparing for pleasant summer excur-sions, and the splendid stores are filled with gay fabrics, to attract the eye and open the purse strings of the passers by. But now the goods hang with a melancholy look in the windows, purchasers are scarce, and these only buy cheap articles, and groups of men stand on the corners of the streets, and talk in low tones. with downcast eyes and groups of men stand on the corners of the streets, and talk in low tones, with downcast eyes and doubtful expression, as if it was impossible to tell what all this was coming to.

In the midst of the general collapse, however, one feature of city life remains in undisturbed possession of the field, and that is hoops. Hoops are undoubtedly in the ascendant; never have they been so large as this season, and the comparison between the full skirts and the slim ones resulted so unfavorably to the latter that they were simultaneously abandoned by the few persons who had assumed them. The introduction of several improvements has also served to increase their popularity, and it them. The introduction of several improvements has also served to increase their popularity, and it would seem too bad to relinquish them now when the manufacture has attained a perfection in the highest degree conducive to feminine comfort. A new skirt called the "Crystal" is the most perfect in shape and the most graceful in style of any which has been presented. It is very light and has created a furore wherever it is known. While examining it at the manufacturers, a week ago, an order was received from one dealer for 3,000 doz., who had taken 100 doz. the week before to try. A still later novelty is called the "Opera" skirt; it is made of muslin, with light steel or whalebone springs, and combines an "adjustable bustle," made expressly to wear with the deep basques now in vogue. The principal feature, however, is the opening down the entire front, so that it can be folded over in a crowded assembly, thus taking up no more room than an ordisembly, thus taking up no more room than an ordi-nary skirt. At first it seems as if this might injure its grace and symmetry, but it is found not to do so in the least, if two full skirts are worn over, as should be the case always with hoops of any des-cription, so as to prevent any trace of the ridge formed by the springs, and to insure ease and ele-gance of carriage. gance of carriage.

SKIRTS OF THE EMPRESS EUGENIE - EXCITEMENT AMONG THE OMNIBUSES.

AMONG THE OMNIBUSES.

The perfection of grace which the contour of the skirts of the Empress Eugenie have attained has been a matter of envy to all the ladies of the French Court. Numerous have been the effort to combine the soft and airy lightness which always distinguish the imperial toilette, but always without snecess. Hoops by the same makers were worn, and skirts piled upon them, each one of finer texture than the last, that being the way in which it was said the Empress attained the much desired result. But alas! the same result did not follow, and the ladies were in despair until the waiting woman of a lovely and newly-made Countess obtained the secret from the tire-woman of the Empress. It was simply the placing of innumerable tained the secret from the tire-woman of the Empress. It was simply the placing of innumerable flounces of tulle over a very graceful hoop, composed of 24 springs of light steel; of course they were entirely useless after a day's wear, and after being removed were supplied by others. This idea is decidedly excellent when applied under robes of light tissue, but could only be of use in the form of fine crinoline under heavier materials, as it would require more substance than tulle possesses would require more substance than tulle possesses to resist the pressure.

A serious innovation is contemplated by the New York stage proprietors, and has already been acted upon in one or two instances. On one of these occasions the consequences were so nearly akin to the seriously ridiculous that it may deter them from trying it again. For the past two weeks a placard has been placed in some of the up town stages with "Ladies Wearing Hoops 12 cents" stuck upon it in large letters. On a very wet day six ladies found themselves inside one of these stages and determined, since they had to pay double price, to take the comfort of it. As most of them wore the new "opera" hoop, a sudden collapse accompanied their sitting down, leaving plenty of room for half a dozen others, they occupying no more space than ladies without hoops. This the driver observed, and as it rained hard, and he thought the women would not dare to say anything, although he had taken the twelve cents from them on entering the stage as is twelve cents from them on entering the stage as is tweive cents from them on entering the stage as is the custom, he determined to try his chance at making a grand haul by putting in the usual num-ber (on rainy days) of twenty-three and making the ladies pay double. In a very few moments several drenched individuals of the masculine gender rushed up to the door and were about entering sans ceremonie, when they were informe female occupants that the stage was "full." at the empty seats, and then at their fair informants whom the gentlemen evidently thought slightly crazy, one of them said politely, he thought the were mistaken, there seemed to be plenty of ladies were inistaken, there seemed to be pienty of room, and in the meantime he and his friends were becoming soaking wet. The ladies regretted "infintely," but could not help it, pointed to the placard, and then to their number, when the gentlemen saw the joke and withdrew, the driver swearing at them The same thing was repeated many times along the route with the same re driver became almost insane with rage, and the "hoops" were in convulsions at their success.

THE CHECKS MANIA, CIRCULAR CLOAKS, FANCY

The passion for check goods has been quite French in its extravagance this season; at first they appeared in fine foulard silks and summer poplins, which were expensive, and bought only by the most decidedly fashionable persons, but the rapid imitation in all kinds of cheap fabrics has made them universal until every woman and every store has become a mass of uniform black and white check. One good it has achieved, which is a neat and lady-like walking-dress at a very moderate price, a great desider atum in our dirty and extravagant city, although it is feared that its universal popularity will insure as rapid a decline as its rise was sudden, our fashionable women not being willing to wear a garment, be it ever so convenient or becoming, after it has been successfully imitated by the masses; we are so truly demogratic and republic democratic and republic Circular cloaks are a general appendage to the promenade toilette and are made in all kinds of materials, checked summer poplin, China silk, linen checks, fine drab grenadine, and thin India muslin. The latest and most distinguished styles are cut quite short and a very deep flounce attached, which is put in large box plaits, with a braid headin The central part of the hood is precisely the sha of a single half handkerchief, the broad side bein gathered at the throat, and a tassel suspended from gathered at the throat, and a tassel suspended from the loose point; on each side are pieces cut so as to form the proper shape to the hood, and points on either side the central one, to each of which tassels are also attached. graceful and exceedingly distingué style is also formed in a small shawl-shaped form, which reaches only to the waist, and to which is attached a very deep and full flounce, which sweeps nearly the entire skirt. One of these was observed upon a lady well known as a leader in the fashionable world and who wore at the same time a robe of fine white grenadine, with flounces, embroidered in saffron cherry. The bonnet was small, very stylish in shape, and composed of a mixture of chip and lace, with a chenille plume on one side and a cluster of transparent cherry berries on the other.

A great deal of taste is displayed in shoes, gloves, hosiery, pocket handkerchiefs, and fancy goods of various kinds. Fineness and delicacy are the qualities sought for, and in these they are attaining exquisite perfection. Mits of Maltese lace, with gauntlet cuffs or flounces upon that part which extends upon the arm; hose of the finest Lisle thread, in small designs, which are worn with the high-heeled slipper, form coquettish and elegant accompaniments, not only to the morning but the promenade toilette.

For pocket handkerchiefs inordinate prices are paid, and the latest have the corners cut off so as nearly to form a circle; the workmanship being the finest possible and the size very small. A pretty and favorite idea for demi-toilette is to cut a tiny centre of French cambric, and sew on the edge a half inch of Valenciennes insertion, alternating it with a quarter inch insertion of the cambric, then another of the Valenciennes, and so on until three rows of each are obtained, ending with one of cambric, which is edged with inch and a half Valenciennes lace.

All the recently imported collars are very small and embroidered in small designs and in the most exquisite manner to correspond with the delicacy of their size. "Large collars are only bought by country ladies, city ladies won't look at them now," said a Broadway dealer to the writer on a recent occasion. New and most beautiful fans are imported, made of more antique, in imitation of feathers, the most fashionable colors being drab, white, black, and crimson. The lower part of the fan is of carved pearl inlaid with silver, and a striking effect produced by spotting the upper part with glittering steel.

There is also a pretty novelty in ladies' portemonaies, small and perfectly round in shape, with a centre composed of fine crochet netting of bright colored silk and gold thread. This is enclosed in a gold frame, the upper part of which opens with a spring and reveals several small pockets of red morocco in which to keep or rather to place one's money, an article New York ladies are not famous for keeping.

Chenille is being applied to decorations in an infinite variety of ways with great success. Superbhead-dresses are made of very thick strands braided into a sort of Polish cap with very heavy tassels on one side. The colors must be very brilliant and striking scarlet, and scarlet and black being the most in vogue. Pointed berthes are also made in all colors of a diamond net-work of chenille, at each junction of which is fastened a large chenille drop button. These are very pretty with white or light dresses.

They were seated in front of the Worsham House, and it is not known by the worsham that any angry words passed front of the Worsham House, and it is not known by those who were near that any angry words passed between them. The first thing that occurred which attracted attention was Abel rising and shooting Mr. Everson. Abel endeavored to make his escape, but he was soon arrested and taken to the prison.

EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 29, 1857.

A WRITING MACHINE. - An ingenious piece of mechanism, designed to enable a person to record his thoughts or observations while traveling in the cars, in a crowd, or in any place where ordinary writing apparatus cannot be used, has been invented by Mr. Benjamin Livermore, of Hartland, Vt. The paper on which the writing—or rather printing, for it resembles the telegraphic system of printing—is impressed, is coiled around two cylinders which revolve as the lines are completed, and the letters are worked by a set of keys. No ink is required; the letters being colored by a prepared blue paper, against which the writing paper is pressed at each movement of the keys. The machine works with great accuracy and much facility, and is very compact, not exceeding four inches in length by about two and a half in width. It can easily le carried in a side pocket, and can be used without taking it from the pocket. By it a blind person might be learned to write. Altogether it is one of the most ingenious affairs we ever examined.

The Oswego Times states that snow fell on Monday night in sufficient quantity to be observed on the side-walks by early risers on Tuesday morning. This for the 23d of June is the crowning act of the long series of weather atrocities to which we have submitted.

A CURIOUS WILL .- The Worcester (Mass.) Transcript gives the substance of the will of the late Jesse W. Goodrich, of that city, well known as a strong advocate of the temperance cause. The document itself covers fifty folio pages, and there is a codicil containing sixty-three double columned pages of printed matter. Among the bequests are a copy of the Holy Bible to each of his brothers, sisters, executors, &c., sixteen in all. Each successive owner of the volumes is to sign a "family teetotal pledge that they will neither make, buy, sell, give away, or use any kind of alcoholic or intoxicating liquors, either for drinking, culinary, medicinal, surgical, or sacramental purposes, not any tobacco, for the purpose either of chewing, smoking, or snuffing, and that by precept and example, and in all other suitable ways, at all times and places, to discountenance all such uses." Other provisions of this curious will are thus given:

He then orders his executors to subscribe for one copy for each of themselves and his relatives, of "some good temperance paper, advocating the disuse of tobacco, and legal and moral suasion combined," for the suppression of liquor, thirty copies in all for typenty-one was " bined," tor the suppression of liquor, thirty copies in all for twenty-one years.

He then bequeaths $200 to each of his living sisters, provided they each of them, within one year, sign the "family and teetotal pledge."

He then divides his property, subject to all other bequests, among his relatives, payable every fifth, tenth, fifteenth, and twentieth year, provided that at the expiration of each period they shall make affidavit that they have kept the anti-liquor, anti-tobacco pledge in its full extent.

THE BEGINNING OF THE WORLD .- One of the greatest attractions in England is the Rev. M. Spurgeon, a minister of celebrity, although but twentyfive years of age. He is said by those who have heard him to be a most remarkable speaker and distinguished for his originality of thought and great power of language. In one of his sermons, which have recently been published, we find the following eloquent passage:

Can any man tell me when the beginning was? Years ago we thought the beginning of this world was when Adam came upon it; but we have discovered that, thousands of years before that, God was preparing chaotic matter to make it a fit abode for man; putting races of creatures upon it, who might die and leave behind the marks of His handwork and marvellous skill, before he tried His hand on man. But this was not the beginning; for revelation points us to a period long ere this world was feathinged, to the days when the merging stars were fashioned—to the days when the morning stars were begotten; when, like drops of dew from the fingers of the morning, stars and constellations fell trickling from the hand of God; when, by His own lips, He launched forth ponderous orbs; when, with His own hand, He sent comets, like thunderbolts, wandering through the sky to find one day their proper dering through the sky, to find one day their proper sphere. We go back to years gone by, when worlds were made and systems fashioned; but we have not even approached the beginning yet.

Until we go to the time when all the Universe slept in the mind of God, as yet unborn, until we enter the eternity where God, the Creator, lived alone, everything sleeping within Him, all creation resting in His mighty, gigantic thought, we have not guessed the beginning. We may go back, back, back, ages upon ages. We may go back, if we may use such strange words, whole eternities, and yet use such strange words, whole eternities, and yet never arrive at the beginning. Our wing might be tired, our imagination would die away. Could it outstrip the lightning's flashing in majesty, power, and rapidity, it would seen weary itself ere it could get to the beginning. But God from the beginning chose His people; when the unnavigated ether was yet unfanned by the wing of a single angel, when space was shoreless, or else unborn, when universal silence reigned, and not a voice or whisper shocked the solemnity of silence, when there was no being, and no motion, and naught but God Himself, alone in His eternity; when without the song of an angel, without the attendance of even the cherubim; long ere the living creatures were born, or the wheels of ere the living creatures were born, or the wheels of the chariot of Jehovah were fashioned; even then, "in the beginning was the Word," and in the be-ginning God's people were one with the Word, and "in the beginning He chose them unto eternal life."

PHENOMENON .- P. Johnson, writing from Carbonville, Pa., to the New York Tribune, under date of June 20, says:

A strange and startling phenomenon took near this city just at sunset last evening. A large cloud was seen making its appearance, coming directly from the north-west, accompanied by considerable wind. When near this place a dark looking cloud, or substance, was seen to leave the cloud and make diagonally for the earth. So soon as it struck the ground contrary to all expectation it became highly diagonally for the earth. So soon as it struck the ground, contrary to all expectation, it became highly luminous. Making directly for a large barn that stood in the field, it passed through its center, setting it on fire, and continued its course, gaining in velocity as far as the eye could reach, making a straight course for the woods, melting stones of considerable size, and burning up brush and underwood, making a complete road, of a rod or more in width, for the distance of three miles, and finally fetching up against a perpendicular breat of solid anthracite coal of sixty feet in thickness, proving rather too much for its cometship, leaving nothing but a sulphurous mass behind.

AN IMPORTANT LAND OFFICE DECISION .- In reply to a letter from a southwestern (land-office) register, asking for information concerning preemptions on lands withdrawn from market for railroad purposes, in view of the provisions of the act of 3d June, 1856, the Commissioner of the Land Office has decided-

1st. That where the settlement was made with good faith before the passage of the law, and all the requirements of the act of 1841 have been met by the party claiming he was entitled to file, subsequently ta the passage of the law, his declaration statement, and prove it up, as well on the odd numbered sections as on the even.

2d. That by the act of 3d March, 1858 (chapter 143), settlements with a view to preemption are authorized upon the alternate reserved sections at any time after withdrawal and prior to the final allotment by the General Land Office.

During the destructive flood which visited Ithica, N. Y., on the night of June 17th, sweeping away buildings and drowning several persons, a woman named Hawley, the wife of a brewer, living near the river, heardlabove the roaring of the waters her husband's voice, in tones of agony and grief bidding her farewell. She looked from the window, but interse gloom met her eye. The long night wore away, and when morning came she heard that he, with others, had climbed into a tree near the creek for safety; the plunging torrent had uprooted the tree, hurled it against an island in midstream, and all the human beings clinging to the tree esthe tree, hurled it against an island in midstream, and all the human beings clinging to the tree escaped to the island, except Mr. Hawley, who was swept down the stream. His lifeless body was found in the morning and brought home to his sorrow-stricken wife.

But three lives were lost by the deluge. Their names were Hawley, Matthew Carpenter, and David Coon. The Ithica Democrat estimates the loss of property in the village at about $130,000. The damage was caused principally by the giving way of the dams on Six-Mile Creek.

MOBILE AND OHIO RAILROAD - SHIPMENT OF IRON .- Capt. Church's Union Packet Company have secured the contract for shipping 20,000 ton of railroad iron for the Mobile and Ohio road, to be used on the northern end of it. The contract will be commenced at once, and iron will be delivered at Memphis, and Columbus, Ky. We suppose the track laying will be simultaneously commenced at Columbus, Ky., and Jackson, Tenn., and the whole work vigorously prosecuted to an early completion.

THE GREAT TRAGEDIENNE.—The last steamer brings the sad news that another of the gifted ones of earth is about to pass away-one who has been crowned as a great artiste in two hemispheres. We allude to Rachel. A foreign correspondent writes,

Very few hopes of the recovery of Mdlle. Rachel are entertained by the Paris medical faculty. The great tragedienne was still at Montpelier sinking fast into a hopeless decline.

THE VARIETIES.

Herschell found the Cape of Good Hope the best place in the world whence to see Heaven, as if thousands of hearts were not gazing therefrom, before Bartholomew Diaz christened it the "Cape of Tempests;" and as if every earnest soul has not had a Cape of Good Hope of its own, since the seas danced hand in hand around the world.

If one cannot climb a mountain to discern a star, let him descend into a well, and he shall see what he is seeking; for the stars have sparkled up in old oaken buckets, before now, that keen eyes have failed to find in the sky.

buckets, before if find in the sky.

Suggestive and beautiful were the dying words of Goethe: "Open the shutters and let in more light." But not more touching than those of the schoolmaster who had grown old and gray, and with whom the term-time of life was just closing. His eyes grew dim as the shadows of death gathered round him and his thought returned for a moment. eyes grew dim as the shadows of death gathered round him, and his thought returned, for a moment, to the scene of his labor and love, and he fancied it a winter's afternoon, and the night closing early in, and so, dying, he murmured: "It is growing dark; the school may be dismissed," and so, in an instant, the holiday with him was begun.

Novel Mail Matter.—Last week two young alliga-tors were received at the postoffice at Charlotte, N. C., having been sent from Smithville, N. C. Is an alligator "mailable matter," and therefore not to be stolen from the mails with impunity?

A letter from Marbourg, under the date of May 26, published in the Gazette d'Augsburg says:-

The marriage ring of Martin Luther has been found. It is a plain ring ornamented with a cross and the instruments of our Savior's passion, in ru-bies. On the outward side is the following inscription: D. Martino Luthero, Catharine a Bora.

Under the head of "March Squalls" an exchange tells us, that a woman in Pulaski county, Va., has regularly presented her husband with an heir during the month of March for sixteen successive

At Albany, a few days ago, a Miss McBride swore out a warrant against her father for stealing her ear-rings to bet on a dog fight. Very probably the young lady did not care for the trinkets, but for the use to which her enthusiastic parent had put

A strange looking couple stopped at a hotel in a small town in Wisconsin not long since. They sent out for a justice of the peace, who soon united them in the bands of a very unusual wedlock. The bride, who was quite a young looking person, informed a lady who was present, immediately after the ceremony, that she had met that man a few days before, and that he had just lost his wife, poor man, and that her husband died last week, and left her with four children, the eldest of which was born on the same day with his eldest, and the birthday of her youngest was also the birthday of his youngest, the age of these hopeful innocents being six months, the age of these hopeful innocents being six months, and it seemed so pretty to have all these little creatures around the house together.

CAN'T AFFORD A WIFE .- A lady correspondent of the Sandusky Register says—from the bottom of her heart no doubt: "It is a mournful fact that this world is full of young men who want to marry and dare not. Deny this, as some will, it is neverthe-less true, as we can easily show. In this town, for instance, there are some thirty or forty young men well to do in the way of salaries and business, yet who refue to take the step which they all want to take but do not; and why?"

She goes on to tell why: Young men of moderate income cannot afford the extravagant luxury of a wife who must live "as well as their neighbors," and, just graduated from some cozy red farm house, insists on tapestry carpets and all the rest of the gingerbread iddlededee which makes the reputation of a modern lady and worries and wears out her husband to pay for. A young woman of modern education has no business marrying an income of less than $2,000 a year.

The lady correspondent of the Register seems to be a sensible woman, but she is unsophisticated. She gives a sorrowful picture of young men ruining their health by too close application to business, in order that they may get a sufficient income to marry. "What man," she says, "of any sensi-tiveness or high sense of honor would take a woman from easy circumstances, and a pleasant and well-furnished home, to adorn his little four rooms and do his housework, as the first principles of economy would demand of him?"

would demand of him?"

We have a large acquaintance among physicians but we have never heard of many young men dying from over-work. If they cannot afford to marry, they can console themselves in other ways than hard work, and one of the worst features of this fashionable life is the utter demoralization and prostitution of both sexes, which results from the fact that an innocent married life, like modern church-going, is always too expensive for any moderate means. a luxury too expensive for any moderate means.

One of these is Irish by birth, being William Howard Russell, Doctor of Laws, by special grant from the University of Dublin (he actually was educated at what the natives call "ould Thrinity College"), and known, far and near, as "Our Own Correspondent" of the London Times, during the war in the Crimea. The other is Samuel Carter Hall, editor of the Art Journal, the crack picture—magazine of London, and The other is Samuel Carter Hall, editor of the Art Journal, the crack picture-magazine of London, and better known as husband of Mrs. S. C. Hall, the most natural, most touching, and the most amusing of all Irish female writers. Mr. Hall is supposed to be the actual, veritable Pecksniff of "Martin Chuzzlewit." For a time, and by a few, it was supposed that the late Sir Robert Peel was the original of that character. But the impression soon faded off, and Mr. Samuel Carter Hall is universally confessed to be the man. The artist "Phiz" has even hit off, in his Pecksniff, a strong personal resemblance to Mr. Hall—an unmistakeable resemblance, indeed.

DISTRESSING AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—The followng account of a heart-rending casualty in York ounty, Pa., we copy from the York Eagle:

county, Pa., we copy from the York Eagle:

On Monday afternoon, Mr. Casper Hibler went to his well in the yard for the purpose of drawing water, when the walls caved in, precipitating him down the well a distance of seventeen feet (the well is about forty feet deep), where he was firmly held by earth and stones, unable to extricate himself. At the time the accident occurred, Mr. Hibler was alone at home, his wife having gone to visit her mother who was ill. She returned about five o'clock and not finding her husband in the house, she called and received an answer, when on se trching for him she found that he was in the well. The alarm was immediately given and strenuous efforts made by she found that he was in the well. The alarm was immediately given and strenuous efforts made by the neighbors to rescue him from his perilous situation. They worked faithfully, and at one time were within eighteen inches of him, the unfortunate man conversing with them all the time. Their exertions, however, seemed to avail but little, for as fast as they succeeded in removing the earth and stones, fresh quantities would fall in upon him. Finding their exertions in his behalf of no avail, the doomed man shortly after midnight requested that his wife might be brought within hearing of his voice, that he might bid her a last farewell. His request was complied with, and we leave the reader to imagine the scene—the anguish of mind of her who, on the 14th of April last, he led to the altar a bride. At one o'clock on Tuesday morning he ceased to exist, and his lifeless body was found about four o'clock, much bruised, with one hand off.

We clip the following from the proceedings of the Grand Masonic banquet held last week in Providence, R. I .:

The fourth toast was as follows: The Grand Lodge of Kentucky—Our younger sister, being planted in a more productive soil, has outstripped us in growth.

Mr. Robert Morris, Senior Grand Warden of the Mr. Robert Morris, Schlor Grand warden of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, responded in an eloquent speech, which was warmly applauded. He offered the following beautiful sentiment in conclusion:

CHARLOTTE BRONTE.—Poor, in a country where wealth is worshipped; the daughter of a Yorkshire parson; destitute of personal beauty, though belonging to the sex in which personal beauty is most ating to the sex in which personal beauty is most attractive; of feeble frame, though destined to a struggle of actual hardship; what could Charlotte Bronte do to make her life noble and productive? Necessity told her to teach, and so she harnessed her delicate mind to the task of dragging about the load of ignorance and contumely with which governesses in ignorance and contumely with which governesses in England are supposed to be burdened. But she was sent by God for better things. She had eyes, and saw the truth of life clearly—she had ears, and heard its chords and discords plainly. The light that was in her must shine out, and it did shine out gloriously. After a time Jane Eyre was written, and after some delay published. It came upon the literary world like a cool, bracing breeze from the hills of Yorkshire. Byronism and Bulwerism and Miss Nancyism had died the death that all falsehoods must die, and in their place men and women were ready to welcome the truthful humanity, the large love, the contempt for shams, and the mercilarge love, the contempt for shams, and the merci-less analysis that were daguerrectyped on the pages of Charlotte Bronte's new work. Thenceforth she was one of the sovereigns of thought, ruling us by a divine, unquestioned right. Yet her life was a

Her father does not appear to have been a very love-able man; her brother nearly broke her heart by his dissipation and early death; her sisters were snatched from her one by one by the resistless grasp of consumption; and she, herself, soon after her marriage, and just as the evening sun of her day's journey here began to break through the thick clouds, passed suddenly and silently through the dark valley into the Silent Land. We could have wished for her a large word a harvier life, but as the next for her a longer and a happier life; but as the poet tells us, those who scale the walls of heaven and bring down the fire therefrom to kindle human hearts, must, like Prometheus, be chained to the crags of sorrow, and ever see the vulture sailing around and above them, ready to punish their divine audacity.

"Only those are crowned and sainted, Who with grief have been acquainted."

Yet what true woman-would not give up the privilege of being an ornament to the gay world, the toy of admirers, the fair butterfly of an hour, and suffer some of Charlotte Bronte's sufferings that she with her clear vision, to hear the melodies she heard in the spirit, to feel the "rapture of creating, the fervor of invention," to reap her exceeding great reward? Her life was not a peaceful triumph, like Goethe's—nor yet an inglorious defeat, but a nation whether the property with a well deserved. patient wrestle, crowned with a well deserved though late victory.

CHAMPAGNE-"THE BEST BRANDS" MADE IN New York.—At the present time in New York there are thirteen establishments which manufacture champagne, or, in other words, convert still wines into sparkling ones; for no process has yet been discovered for producing an artificial wine which possesses the flavor and other qualities of the product of the grape. These manufacturers use for their purpose a light French, and sometimes, if sparkling hock is to be produced, a German wine. The wine. after being prepared by precipitating all substances which would, when charged with carbonic acid, be deposited in the bottle, is subjected to a high pres-sure of carbonic acid by machinery, such as is used for the manufacture of soda water, and after being well agitated in contact with the gas, is bottled un er pressure with a very ingenious machine. At a festival given in New York to a distinguish statesman, the wine furnished was all made in this city and was pronounced of excellent quality by numbers who imagined they were drinking genuine

Within the past year vast improvements have taken place in the manufacture of the article.

The deceased was, beyond all question, the largest man in the world. His height was seven feet six unches—2 inches higher than Porter, the celebrated Kentucky Giant. His weight was a fraction over one thousand pounds. It required seventeen men to lift him in his coffin. Took over 100 feet of plank to make his coffin. He measured around the waist six feet and four inches.

Important Arrest.—Officers Hazen and Flannery arrested, last night, at the Washington House, corner of Walnut and Water streets, a man named David Fornev, alias Stedick, who is charged with arson in Frankland county, Penn. The fire took place several weeks since, and upward of $70,000 worth of property was destroyed. Forney was a resident of the county and married into a wealthy family, but being of a dissipated and vicious character, by the advice of the friends of the lady, they were separated. It is supposed that, actuated by a revengethe advice of the friends of the lady, they were separated. It is supposed that, actuated by a revengeful spirit, he fired the house of his father-in-law, which was consumed, and, the flames communicating to a barn and other buildings in the immediate vicinity, a large amount of property was destroyed. The prisoner was lodged in the county jail, and on Monday will be conveyed to Frankland county, Penn., by the sheriff of that county and officer Hazen.—Chn. Eng. zen.—Cin. Enq.

GREAT BARGAINS IN SUMMER, FANCY, AND STAPLE DRY GOODS .- We would invite the attention of ladies, especially those visiting our city in search of the latest styles of all kinds of fancy dry goods, to the stock at the house of G. B. Tabb, corner of Fourth and Market streets. In order to reduce his stock previous to making his fall purchases, he will offer from this date until the close of the season his entire stock of fancy silks, berege, grenadine and organdy robes, silk and lace mantillas, embroideries and lace goods, organdy and jaconet muslins, bereges and tissues, parasols, &c., at greatly reduced prices. His stock of the above goods cannot be excelled in point of variety, style, and elegance by that of any other southern or western house. Ladies will find it to their interest before making their purchases to examine the goods at this house.

We invite the attention of our readers to the very rich stock of jewelry and fine watches of Messrs. F. Yeiser & Co., on Fourth street, under the National Hotel. It being their intention to close their business in Louisville, they offer their entire stock at cost. Certainly this renders their store very attractive. It will be seen from their card in another column that they request an early payment of accounts due them.

MILITARY MEETING .- There will be a meeting of the Falls City Guards at the Lafayette Engine House to-night at 81/2 o'clock. Important business is to be transacted.

JUST PUBLISHED – KNAYES AND FOOLS, or FRIENDS OF BOHEMLA: a Satirical Novel of London Life: by E. M. Whitty (The Stranger in Parliament). A handsome 12mo volume, bound in cloth and illustrated.
430 pages. Price $1 25.
Mr. Whitty has of late produced a marked sensation in the literary circles of Great Britain by a series of satirical papers published in the London Times, under the nom de viume of "The Stranger in Parliament," which have gained for him the most enviable notoriety of being one of the most powerful political essayists in Europe and a satirist of great vigor and strength. This, his first complete work, is

A SATIRICAL NOVEL of the most brilliant character, combining a racy expose of certain literary and artistic cliques in London, together with a story and plot which for quaintness and interest has been compared to the "Christic Johnstone" and "Peg Woffington" of Charles Reade.

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Cos-tivenes, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheu-matic, and Neuraigic Affections, it has in numerous in-stances, proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here ard there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them. I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

district wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirite, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising put he drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

NOTICE.—Wheever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION. The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. GREAT RAILROAD CONVENTION .- A convention of railroad officers of the Eastern and Western railroads, between the seaboard and Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, &c., was held at the Clarendon Hotel, in Buffalo, on Wednesday evening. The object of the meeting was to settle the difficulties between the two great lines from Chicago to New York and Boston, growing out of the recent reduction of fare by the New York and Erie Railroad.

Mr. Rockwell, of the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad, was chosen President, and Mr. Flint, Superintendent of the Cleveland and Columbus Railroad, was chosen Secretary.

A communication from the President of the New York and Erie Railroad was received and read, but no delegation from that road appeared to take a part in the proceedings.

After a lengthy session, in which the subject was ably discussed, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved. That if any railroad company shall refuse to accede to the regular rates of first-class passenger fare, which were charged on the 20th of May last, or shall-knowingly, directly or indirectly—violate the same by knowingly, directly or indirectly—violate the same by payment or commission, or allowance of drawback or otherwise, either on its own line, or by forming part of and working with a through-line that may be violating them, all other companies interested therein shall refuse to receive or sell through-tickets over or from the road of the offending party, while such violation continues; nor shall such roads so interested check baggage over the road of the offending party, or permit it so to be checked upon their premises, or otherwise, with checks that they can control.

Resolved, That if any company shall refuse to conform to the above resolution, and shall continue in any respect contrar to said resolution to do such business with any offending company, all other companies shall, in like manner, as provided in said resolution, refuse to do business with the company so maintaining its connections with the offending parts.

with the company so maintaining its conjudication party.

Resolved, That the interest of the public and of the stockholders of all our railroads requires an immediate discontinuance of all outside expenditures by the companies to get business away from each other.

Personal Collision.—Frederick Schley, Esq., of the Examiner, and Bradley T. Johnson, Esq., of the Union, at Frederick, Md., having lately got into a warm controversy through the columns of their respective journals, finally resorted to posting each other, which resulted, on Wednesday, in a personal collision, Mr. Johnson having attacked Mr. Schley, striking him with a cane. They were separated, however, before either sustained any serious injury. however, before either sustained any serious injury.

Reported for the Evening Bulletin.

NEW YORK, June, 29. Four serious riots occurred in this vicinity on Sun day. At Hudson Park, yesterday, a party of Germans, who were enjoying a pic nic, were attacked by rowdies, when a battle ensued, in which several of the former were seriously injured.

The eleventh ward was the scene of a dangerous

The eleventh ward was the scene of a dangerous riot. A gang of rowdies attacked Captain McKinney, the thirteenth ward police, and nine of his men, and succeeded after a bloody fight in rescuing some prisoners from the custody of the policemen. Capt. McKinney was, it is believed, fatally injured in the melee and seven of his men are dangerously wounded. The latter riot grew out of the arrest by the police of a fellow who was acting as ringleader to a gang of ruffians, who were assaulting members of a hose company. They succeeded in rescuing their comrade, and beating the policemen.

At Williamsburg the Germans and Irish engaged in a fight, in which three persons were stabled.

The firemen of that usually peaceful suburb also indulged in a free fight on Saturday night, but without any serious results.

At Brooklyn two rival fire companies engaged in a conflict. Stones, clubs, and other missiles were freely used and several persons injured.

was taken into custody a few days ago by officers Kinner and Smith, of the Chief's office, on the charge of being a fugitive from Johnson county, Indiana, where it is alleged he stands charged with having committed extensive forgeries up farmer's Bank of Franklin, in the above committed extensive forgeries upon the rarmer's Bank of Franklin, in the above named county and State. On the 28th of May last, Taylor, it is charged, forged a draft on the above bank for the sum of $3,500, and left the place the following day en route for New York.

On Tuesday the detectives surprised the fugitive while he was in his bed-room. Upon searching the room occurried by the prisoner a har containing while he was in his bed-room. Upon searching the room occupied by the prisoner, a bag containing $3,000, in gold coin, a gold watch valued at $200, a valuable diamond breastpin, and other trinkets were found stowed away in various corners of the apartment. Upon the person of Taylor was found a bank-book, from which it would appear that he had $7,000 deposited to his credit in the Broadway Bank of this city, but, upon making inquiries, it was of this city, but, upon making inquiries, it was found that he had no money at all in that bank. found that he had no money at all in that bank. Some time previous to his arrest he deposited $700 in the bank, but subsequently drew it out, and then altered the teller's entry of $700 to that of $7,000, so that it would appear as though he still had a balance of $6,300 credited to him, while he really had no money at all in the bank. In a valise were found some letters which apparently had come to him from some ladies through the Broadway post-office; also a couple of daguerreotypes of females with whom he had evidently been on intimate terms, and also a receipt from one of the express companies, showing that he had sent a Bible to some Southern church by way of a donation to the pastor thereof.

Taylor is a lawver by profession, possessed of many superior accomplishments, and is withal a perfect gentleman in manner and appearance. He is suspected of having been engaged in a number of other forgeries perpetrated upon several banks in Indiana during the past six months.

A HORRIBLE AFFAIR. - A letter from Philadelphia

One of the parties implicated in the murder of constable Muldoon, already mentioned, has made a statement of the facts. This man, Lavery, states statement of the facts. This man, Lavery, states that the fight in which the murder was committed took place between persons belonging to rival factions; James Diamond and the two brothers Lavery being the principals on one side, and a German named Frederick Stanmeyer and a friend of his named Lewis Pickering being of the opposite faction. The difficulty has been going on for some time, and on Saturday night the parties named went ipto the yard to "fight it out." The exhibition was a most brutal one—the men arming themselves with clothes props as weapons of offense, and the mother and sisters of the Laverys being present as spectators. The old woman held a candle during the fight, for the purpose of "seeing fair play," as she herself said. Edward Maldoon, the deceased, hearing of the fracas, entered the enclosure for the purpose of putting a stop to the fight, and he announced himself to be an officer. The women then fell upon him and tore his face with their nails. Mr. Muldoon, intent upon per orming his duty, seized by their collars the upon per orming his duty, seized by their collars the two men who were fighting, and held them apart. At this moment Michael Lavery states that Diamond came up and plunged a knife into the stomach of the officer.

The steamer Montreal left at 4 oclock yesterday afternoon for Montreal, with from four to five hundred passengers, mostly Scotch emigrants, recently from Europe. Nothing unusual occurred until the Montreal reached Cape Rouge, 12 or 15 miles above Quebec, when the wood work near the furnaces was discovered to be on fire. Directly after, the flames broke forth, causing the utmost consternation amongst the passengers. Every effort was made to arrest the flames, to no purpose. Captain Rudolph, finding it impossible to save the steamer; ordered her to be run toward the shore. Her officers and her to be run toward the shore. Her officers and crew exerted themselves at the same time to get out the life-boats. The flames spread with most astonishing rapidity. The wildest confusion and despair prevailed throughout the ship. Great numbers of the passengers threw themselves overboard and were drewned. Fortunately the steamer Napoleon for Montreal, was but a few miles distant and put back with all possible speed to her assistance. The Napoleon succeeded in rescuing from the burning wreck 127 passengers. Captain Rudoiph and the purser of the Montreal were among the number of those who threw themselves into the river, both being excellent swimmers they succeeded in reach ing excellent swimmers they succeeded in reaching the steamer Alliance and were saved. It is quite possible that others succeded in saving themselves by swimming, but as the steamer became unmanageable when at considerable distance from the land no doubt most of those who threw themselves from the burning boat met a watery grave. Sixteen of those who were saved died shortly after reaching the deck of the Napoleon. From present information it is believed that the total loss of life from this terrible disaster will 1.0t fall short of 300 or 400 persons.

STAGNATION IN FREIGHTS .- The following remarks from the New York Rxpress in regard to sail vessels are applicable also to steamboats on all the Western rivers:

The present depression of freights seems to be almost at its lowest ebb. The large number of fine clipper ships at present laid up at our wharves, is ample proof of the fact. The Liverpool packets are dependent almost entirely upon the passage traffic at present, for, in truth, that is all that keeps their owners from heavy losses. Nor is New York alone the sufferer. Boston has some of her finest ships at present laid up, in consequence of the ruinous rates offered: and, in fact, the same condition of things is visible everywhere. Several of the steamere that we have heretofore noticed as being about to be discontinued, is owing partly to the small quantity of freight offering, and the low prices for that. There is at present laid up in the port of Quebec about thirteen hundred square-sailed vessels, principally British. To show the extent of the preent depression, we may cite an instance that has come to our knowledge: A ship some time since sai ed hence for Liverpool, discharged her cargo, which did not pay for the loading and unloading of the vessel. She then made for Bordeaux, and from that port to New Orleans—took in cotton there, and when she arrived back, it was found that the stotal losses of her voyage had nearly equalled her entire cost. This is only one instance. There are plenty of others of the same sort to the West India trade will be discontinued during the summer, partly in consequence of the strict quarantine that will be enforced.

Fallures, Assignments, &c.—The following are among plicable also to steamboats on all the Western rivers:

FAILURES, ASSIGNMENTS, &c .- The following are amon the failures and suspensions announced by the Independ ent of the 25th inst:

The same paper says of the dry goods market:

The importers have closed their trade for the season, and jobbers are doing very little. Many of them are engaged in taking stock, customary at the close of the season. The importations for the trade of the fall are yet very light. Silks of spring importation are in good stock, and are heavy in price. Woolens are also abundant in market, and at low prices. China and India goods are well held, as the stocds are small. In domestic goods the supply is large, and seems to be on the increase. There is very little demand, and the views of holders are rather above those of their customers. The woolen jobbers are doing very little business. There is a large amount of foreign woolens in bond, which will soon be offered in the market; and the expectation of this renders prices very unsettled, both of foreign and domestic and woolens in store. The same paper says of the dry goods market:

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

At an advanced hour last evening, three slaves, employed by Mr. Edward Gill of Chesterfield, at his residence near Matoaca, were lodged in the jail of this city under very important, and, indeed, fearful circumstances. Their names are, respectively: Rebecca, a cook, and Maria (both owned by Mr. Gill), and John, a slave of Sylvester Pearce, Esq. For several weeks past the entire family of Mr. Gill, consisting of six children, himself, and wife, have been slowly and gradually visited with mysterious diseases, producing internal inflammations, deathly paleness, and exceeding nervousness. In the course of time their youngest child fell a victim to its fatality; and on Saturday last, physicians were called to attend the family, every one of whom had become prostrated, and were laboring under intense pain. Petersburg, June 23.

From the character of the symptoms of the affliction, suspicions of poisoning were aroused, which were subsequently fully corroborated by investigation. On the premises of the cook, which were also occupied by the two other servants, were found parcels of lump and carbonate of lead, with a vial containing the sugar of lead. These similar and deadly poisons, as every attendant circumstance warranted, had been introduced from time to time in the food and drink served to the family, causing a slow process of death. On yesterday (Monday) evening, Ella, the youngest surviving daughter, died under the loathsome affliction. The Chesterield authorities were immediately consulted all the circumstances fully stated, and the arrest authorized. From the character of the symptoms of the circumstances fully stated, and the arrest authorized. The rest of the family are slightly improving.
